RENAME OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

Presiding Clerk Ralph S.
Coppock Begins
26th Term

DAMASCUS, Aug. 30.—Delegates to the 125th annual Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends returned to their homes today after gospel services yesterday brought the meeting to a close.

Attendance at the gospel services was the largest of the six-day meeting. More than 1,000 church members packed the local meeting house and church in the morning to hear Rev. William Kirby of Huntington Park, Calif., and Rev. Joseph Smith, veteran evangelist of Redlands, Calif.

Rev. Kirby delivered the sermon at the concluding service in the yearly meeting house last night.

Attendance High
Officials estimated that the total attendance of the meeting was between 4,500 and 5,000, figuring that more than 750 persons attended daily sessions.

It was believed to have been the largest meeting since 1929. Two services were required for the noon meal at each week day session, while the Sunday services attracted so many people that it was necessary to have three services at noon.

Other speakers at yesterday's services were Rev. Wade Patrick of Alliance and Rev. Minnie Lawhead of Van Wert, a minister within the Indiana Yearly Meeting.

With one exception, officers of the yearly meeting were reelected at the final business session Saturday.

John Pennington Williams was named pastor to replace Rev. Floyd Clark of Columbus in the lone change of officials.

Officers reelected are: Presiding clerk, Ralph S. Coppock of Alliance; recording clerk, Rev. Edward Escombe of Tecumseh, Mich.; reading clerk, Rev. Byron L. Osborne of Cleveland; announcing clerk, Rev. Kenneth Carey of Lupton, Mich.; treasurer, Curtis Ellet of Beloit; librarian, Isadore Hobson of Damascus; statistician, W. E. Langdon of Columbus.

Beginning 26th Term
Coppock, one of the most prominent Friends church members of this district, was renamed to his 26th term as presiding clerk.

Plans to restore the interior of the old yearly meeting house at Mt. Pleasant were made at Saturday's session. The house, which has been standing for 123 years, is one of the outstanding landmarks of Ohio.

All Quakers west of the Allegheny mountains look to the Mt. Pleasant yearly meeting as their leading shrine. Various other yearly meetings have been set off from the old yearly meeting at the southeastern Ohio city.

A committee appointed last year was ordered to continue its preparations for repairing the old meeting house. The committee includes Leroy Skipper of Columbus, Rev. Samuel Mosher of Mt. Pleasant and Harris Stanley of Damascus.

The evangelistic and pastoral board was instructed by the meeting to investigate the possibilities of assisting in missionary work among five civilized Indian tribes

Homecoming Crowd Royally Entertained By Winonans

Variety of Interesting Events, Old and New, Feature
Annual Rally at Stewart's Grove

City folk rubbed elbows with the farm folk... enjoyed good band music... witnessed horse-pulling contests... saw how flax was made into linen by pioneer scutching and... tasted apple butter made in an open kettle down at Winona Saturday morning and afternoon.

The occasion was Winona's annual homecoming. Some refer to it as the Winona flax scutching and field day.

Anyway, the affair, which attracted 600 or more visitors Saturday, was deemed a grand success.

Miller Is Speaker
Thurman "Dusty" Miller, Wilmington newspaperman and humorist, was guest of the homecoming committee and gave the talk of the afternoon.

"Forget yourself," he told his audience. "Quit thinking about yourself all the time. Too many people do that and now look at them. They look tired and down and out. Why? Because they never give themselves a rest."

"Dusty's" recommendation to everyone was to get away from "yourself" and catch the enthusiasm of the crowds. His talk was

SIX MOTORISTS ARE INJURED IN AUTO CRASHES

TWO CANTON MEN HURT NEAR SALEM

Balky Car Crashes Into Store at Wash-
ingtonville

A veteran East Liverpool street car motorman was critically injured in one of five traffic accidents in Columbiana county over the weekend.

James McKinnon employed by the Steubenville, East Liverpool, and Beaver Valley Traction Co. for the last 27 years, was in East Liverpool City hospital, suffering from injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by John Salica, of Midland, Pa., at 2:10 a. m. today.

The accident occurred shortly after McKinnon stepped from his car to throw a switch at the car barns. His run for the day had ended.

Motorist In Jail

Salica is held in city jail at East Liverpool without bond, pending the outcome of the condition of the motorman who is suffering from a fractured left leg, a broken right wrist, an eye injury and other hurts. His skull also is believed fractured.

Two Canton men escaped serious injury at 11 p. m. Saturday when their car overturned in a field on the Georgetown road, one mile southwest of Salem.

Edward P. Sigler, 23, of R. D. 2, Canton, is in Salem City hospital with deep lacerations near left eye and other cuts and bruises about the body, while Harley Reikowski, 24, of the same address, was discharged from the hospital following emergency treatment for minor facial cuts.

Patrolmen Paul Ormsby, Clifford Todd and George Reash, who investigated the mishap, learned that Sigler, driver of the car, had been blinded by the lights of another car after making the turn at that point. Homer Grey of the Goshen road discovered the car in the field. The men were unconscious at the time.

Auto Runs Into Store

The front of the J. C. Weikart store at Washingtonville was damaged in an odd accident at 11 a. m. Sunday.

When Mrs. Catherine Kosha of New Brighton, Pa., turned left onto Route 14 from the temporary route coming from Leetonia, the steering apparatus of her car locked and the machine continued to turn—crashing into the store on the south side of the street.

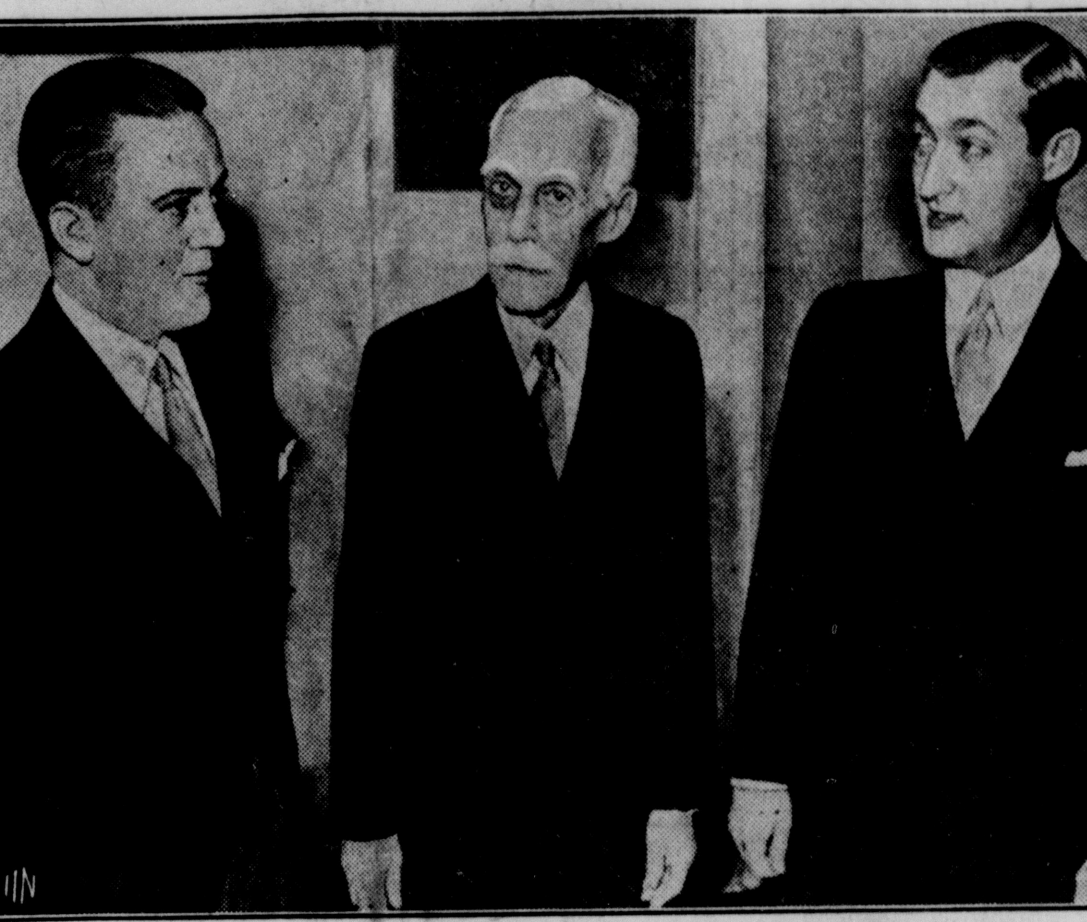

Mrs. Kosha, however, was unhurt. The impact broke a front window in the store and ripped out part of the boards.

Frederick Brudery, 21, and Harvey Bush, of Washingtonville, escaped with minor injuries when their automobile, driven by Brudery, crashed into the rear of a milk truck in Washingtonville and overturned several times at 4 a. m. Sunday.

The milk truck, owned by Orville Bates, of R. D. Leetonia, was parked.

Vincent Trobec, 23, of East Palestine, was treated at Salem City hospital at 4:45 a. m. Sunday for an injured left forearm, suffered when his car hit the rear of another machine which stopped suddenly on the Unity-Petersburg road.

Mellon and Heirs in Last Public Appearance

DAVEY STUDIES LABOR FACTOR

Programs of Other Aspirants Factors In His Plans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The outcome of Gov. Martin L. Davey's campaign for renomination in the Democratic primaries next August might depend on the labor program of other aspirants for his office, Ohioans here speculated today.

Some opponents of Davey already are looking about for a candidate who might draw G.O. support and attract votes now considered "safe" for Davey, who is understood to have lost CIO votes when national guardsmen were sent in the steel strike area.

Among the names suggested to oppose Gov. Davey was that of Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, national committeeman from Ohio. The author of that suggestion, however, added that if three or more candidates enter the race, Davey probably would be renominated because of the support of a strong state organization.

Sawyer is expected to confer next month in Cincinnati with Representative Herbert S. Bigelow, who said recently he might seek nomination for governor or United States senator providing a majority of the candidates he favors is elected in a Cincinnati councilmanic election next month.

While Bigelow said he would like to be governor, he indicated he would be willing to support a candidate who would cooperate in a plan to simplify methods of circulating initiative petitions in Ohio. He wants the state constitution changed to reduce the number of signatures required on the petitions.

Warren L. Harris, 70, of the Salem-Winona rd., died at 9:15 a. m. Saturday of complications. He had been in ill health for several years.

Mr. Harris had lived all his life in this vicinity. He leaves his wife, Cora; one son, C. Drexel, at home; a sister, Mrs. W. J. Wallace of Alliance; and one brother, L. B. Harris of Salem.

Funeral service will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Arbaugh funeral home in charge of Rev. H. J. Thompson. Burial will be in Grandview cemetery. Friends may call this evening.

Send Fire Truck To "Hot Dog" Fete

The attendants at a wiener roast in the rear of 886 Homewood ave., were disturbed because someone sent a fire truck to the scene of their party at 11:15 p. m. Saturday.

But the firemen, too, were a little perturbed.

Arriving at the scene of the supposed fire, they looked over the situation, lingered a few minutes and then returned to their beds at the fire station.

"No one even offered us a hot dog," one of the "smoke eaters" lamented.

The shooting occurred shortly after the pair had walked down the street together and then became engaged in a fight.

Louis and Farr Weigh In
For Championship
Battle Tonight

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Joe Louis scaled 197 pounds today for his delayed 15-round heavyweight championship match with Tommy Farr in the Yankee stadium to night.

Farr scaled 204 1/2 pounds. Both fighters were lighter today than they were last Thursday when they went through weighing-in ceremonies only to have a steady rain force a postponement until tonight.

At that time Louis scaled 198 pounds and Farr 207.

Although the weather was cloudy and threatening today, Promoter Mike Jacobs said he would make no decision on a postponement until late this afternoon, probably not before 4 p. m. EST.

If postponed again, the bout will be staged tomorrow night.

Jacobs, however, was confident that the fight would be held and a weather bureau forecast upheld his guess that there would be no rain.

The big public room where the weighing-in took place was crowded with photographers as Louis and Farr stepped through the doorway.

"It looks like we'll have to battle the picture men," Farr wisecracked but Joe only grunted in reply.

Throughout the ceremonies Farr kept up a line of running chatter, much of it directed at the champion but Louis did not reply.

Farr kept his eyes fastened on the slugging Detroit Negro but Joe declined even to look at him.

SHELLS INTENDED FOR JAPANESE

U. S. Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson Hurries to Nanking Government to Place Situation Before Nation's Leaders

By JAMES A. MILLS

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30.—Bombs from four Chinese warplanes ripped decks and sides of the big United States Dollar liner President Hoover today in the China sea, wounded seven of her seamen, and heightened in menacing, feverish degree the international scope of Sino-Japanese conflict.

The incident paralyzed efforts of the United States navy and the Dollar line to evacuate hundreds of American women and children remaining in Shanghai.

It sent United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson hurrying to the Nanking government of China to bring the ominous situation full before the nation's leaders.

Apparently the bombs that hit the Hoover were intended for Japanese warships.

Fragments pierced the ship's hull in 25 places. One projectile struck the boat deck; several landed in the water at the President Hoover's sides.

Three passengers suffered shell-shock. An emergency operation was performed to save the life of the most seriously injured seaman.

The bombing prompted Dollar Line officials to cancel plans for further evacuation of Americans from war-torn Shanghai.

The President Hoover and a following liner were ordered back to Kobe, Japan, to avoid further risk. The Hoover was attacked 20 miles from the coast, about 50 miles from Woosung, the place where other Dollar liners have taken on Americans evacuating Shanghai.

On the way to Shanghai

At the time, the President Hoover was hurrying to Shanghai to pick up 350 Americans who had booked passage for Manila.

It was the second time since Shanghai hostilities started that Americans were killed or wounded on shipboard. On Aug. 20, a sailor was killed and 17 were wounded when a shell struck the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet. Other Dollar liners, too, have been under Sino-Japanese cross-fire.

International tension in the battle-scarred city reached a new height.

The incident came just as Sir Hugh Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen, Britain's ambassador to China, was reported recovering somewhat from bullet wounds suffered when a Japanese plane machine-gunned his car Thursday.

In Tokyo, the Japanese government pondered its reply to Britain's demand for a full apology for the attack.

Soviet Russia concluded a non-aggression pact with the Chinese government, and Japanese officials at Shanghai declared they believed the treaty contained "secret military clauses" under which China would receive aid from her Soviet neighbor.

On the warfront itself, Japan girded for a general offensive against Chinese troops about Shanghai by massing land and naval forces for a drive on defense lines.

Bombs and shells again fell near the international area.

The British cruiser Cumberland was the first to respond to the President Hoover's frantic calls for aid. She reached the vessel before the arrival of two United States destroyers.

ANDREW W. MELLON

The late Andrew W. Mellon was an eminently successful businessman, a capable and diligent secretary of the treasury for 11 years and a philanthropist. Yet, it's not easy for some of his countrymen to make an estimate of him, because in the revised lexicon of virtues, business success, public office and philanthropy are as likely as not to be printed in small type at the bottom of the page.

This is confusing. No one knows what virtues should be printed in large type. Presumably, editors of the revised lexicon are going to find some.

Mr. Mellon came in for a lot of criticism because he made money in the old fashioned way, was guided by the ethics of rugged individualism, ran the treasury department like a financier and was a prominent figure in the Republican party during the era which came to an end in the depression.

Thus, he became a favorite whipping boy for prosecutors of the ballot box revolution which fathomed the New Deal. His public position was unique; it presented him as a financier, a businessman, a politician and the advocate of individualism. He was subject to examination from many sides because there were many sides of him to examine.

He was simultaneously admired and criticized, depending on the scale of values against which he was measured.

From one point of view, he was commendable. From another point of view, a man who develops great business enterprises, who becomes a financial power, is called to public service by his party and believes in conservation of property could not be commendable—unless he happened to be a new dealer, in which case it was taken for granted that he had been converted and was following the gleam toward a More Abundant Life.

There are, of course, millions of Americans living neither wholly in the past nor in the future who look upon Mr. Mellon merely as one of a line of successful men stemming from Benjamin Franklin whose industry, thrift and intelligence always have been a credit to American character—and always will be.

STATEMENT OF THE WEEK

James A. Farley occupies the high seat of political prophecy in the United States. His job is to know what's going on so he can peer into the future authoritatively. No one ever has denied that he's exceptionally good at it.

Last week, Mr. Farley made this statement to the press:

"The people of the United States generally are for President Roosevelt's program, whatever it is. They believe what he has done in the past justifies whatever he does in the future."

That was another way of saying what the President, himself, says when he speaks of his mandate from the people. Because he has been elected twice by an overwhelming majority, Mr. Roosevelt reasons, he has absolute authority to proceed with his program as he sees fit. Neither the legislature nor the judiciary should assume the right to impede him.

In other words, the sole question before the people last November was: Are You For Roosevelt? An affirmative majority was construed as a blanket mandate to proceed. The Democratic platform was meaningful only to the extent that it could be stretched or shrunk to accommodate the leader of the party, the same situation that prevailed after 1932. The plebiscite was not on questions of policy, but on Mr. Roosevelt.

No great amount of study is required to understand that this is not self-government but the beginning of a benevolent dictatorship. The electorate gives approval to a man, not to the policies of a party. Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley now are on record for that conception of politics. The situation, as they see it, has been described in simple words at last.

The issue of personal government, henceforth, can be discussed without apology.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, August 31

A lively day with fair progress is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual configurations, but this trend of affairs may be held back by some adverse or afflicting circumstance, probably the illness or demise of an elderly person. Change of an unexpected nature looms, possibly in relation to a favorable turn in employment. In such new affiliations there may be much initiative in developing new plans. The mind may be under fine creative stimulus, but it may be necessary to defer practical operations.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, although finding fair progress in affairs, may be subject to delays, impediments and disappointment, possibly through the illness or loss of an elderly person. This afflicting circumstance may postpone the launching of very important constructive projects, but it is a favorable time for working on plans and for sound creative work in connection with employment.

A child born on this day, while it may have a fine mind and may be keen and quick at constructive thinking, is apt to be disposed to procrastinate or postpone active operations, probably because of a moody or melancholy outlook. Its success may materialize late in life.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—Diary: Lay scandalously late and came a cutting about sunsets and an interesting note from Talullah's father, Congressman Bankhead. And an autographed book from a favorite litterateur, William Saroyan, called "Little Children" and a note from Hattie Bell Johnston in Capetown.

Growing hair on celebrity pates has been one of the diversions of the summer tedium. George Jean Nathan started it by confessing in print that some mixture saved his locks, and baldness was the outcome of laziness. Then Charles MacArthur bobbed up with a paean for some massaging device, and before the shouting died Brock Pemberton was running around the Rialto removing his hat to show anybody who would look what some ancient herb formulae would do, for a once deforested scalp. Now everybody of importance with thinning hair is trying out one of the three panaceas and spending most of the time sneaking peeks in pocket mirrors.

There was a grizzled copy reader on the Evening Mail with a shock of white hair as luxurious as Lloyd George's. He had passed or was nearing 70 and told me that in his 30's while working in Europe for the Herald he began to lose his hair and in a few years had only a fringe around an enormous open space. He did nothing about it until 50; then because of chronic headaches began to massage his scalp vigorously twice a day. In a year he still had the headaches but a new crop of hair.

Roy Howard is credited with inoculating Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, with an itch for dazzling shirts. Quezon had passed 50 without showing predilections for anything in shirts save snow white. Then Howard visited the Philippines several times and became a friend and palace guest of Quezon. The Filipino took a gander at Howard's astonishing creations with collars to match and went sartorially berserk. When he came to New York on his way to the coronation early this summer he insisted that Howard take him around to his shirt makers, Sam and Bill McCrory. Howard did and Quezon let himself go—buying more than 200 shirts, 500 ties and 100 sets of pajamas. It was about the biggest single order since Michael Arlen came to America in the first flush of his literary fame and increased the Sulka dividends.

CHRONIC ILLNESSES

Recently I told you something about the chronic degenerative diseases of middle age. Today I want to tell you more about some of the chronic diseases that too often shorten the span of life.

Modern man is blessed with the advantages and protection of the age in which he lives. But too often this security is misleading and dangerous. It may promote indifference and neglect of disorders which require medical care.

It is true that the average length of life today, as compared to that of former years, has been greatly lengthened. The life expectancy at birth has increased to approximately 57 years for boys and approximately 60 years for girls.

These statistics are indeed encouraging, but we must not overlook the fact that there has recently been a marked increase in the chronic disorders. There is no doubt that this progressive increase, if it continues, will serve ultimately to alter the average span of life and increase the death rate. I say this because more than 50 per cent of the deaths today are attributed to chronic disorders.

How to Combat It? But how can we combat this danger? As I have frequently pointed out, it is imperative that every individual consult with the doctor at periodic intervals. This is especially advised for persons beyond 40 years of age. Bear in mind that each decade brings increasing hazards to health and life.

We can guard against these dangers only by consulting with the doctor long before serious and constant danger is present. By means of periodic health examination, we can take stock of body and health. It is unwise to wait until health has been impaired and then to resort to medicines and medical care.

Many of the chronic disorders can be prevented, therefore it is only logical to assume that we can easily solve the problem which con-

Labor College on New Course

Students at Commonwealth college have recreation hour

Recent appointment of the Rev. Claude C. Williams as new director of Commonwealth college near Mena, Ark., signals the beginning of another chapter in the stormy career of this institution devoted to furthering the cause of organized labor in the south. Students and faculty members both work as well as study and teach in this school which has an enrollment of approximately 80 students. It has been the target of considerable criticism and even a legislative investigation, but the school has carried on and is now embarking on another, and more ambitious period in its history.

Do not ignore such simple symptoms as headache, palpitation of the heart, backache, excessive fatigue, indigestion, restlessness, insomnia and loss of weight. If you are in doubt about any sign or disorder of your body, consult with your doctor.

THE CAPTIVE BRIDE

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER XXXIII
Denny knew that Van Cleve, despite his remarks to Rio, was not finding Tarnigan or anything else very desirable these days. His drawn face and his brooding dark eyes as lifeless as his right hand resting motionless in his sling, gave evidence that he was in a particularly black mood this morning.

Presently she got up and assuming a cheerfulness she did not feel, went into the card room.

He was playing double Canfield, with a bottle of liquor, an empty glass and a siphon at his left elbow. He rose at her entrance, asking, "And how's our frozen sepulchre affecting the mistress of River House this Yuletide?"

"I never was happier in my life, Doctor, or more full of good will to men," she declared. But she turned toward the window, so that his probing eyes had only the back of her silky dark head from which to judge of her real emotions. She ran the half-drawn shade up and facing him, again demanded, in tones of mock authority, "Now, sir, the chronometer!"

The harsh lines about his mouth softened under his slow rare smile, and he handed her his watch. The morning and evening winding of the watch, inaugurated during those first days when the doctor's awkward use of his left hand had made the task difficult for him, had become an established ceremony; one out of which had grown a mutual feeling of intimacy and understanding.

After she had wound the timepiece and slipped it back into his pocket, she laid her warm hand over the bluish fingertips that protruded from the sling. "Better today, Van?"

He jerked his head in an impatient negative. "No change. Don't you know, Denny, that you're guilty of criminal wastefulness in devoting so much of your time to a simple cripple?" A light had come into his eyes, but she did not see it. Her gaze was drawn to the window again, caught by a movement between the evergreens on the hillside across Tarnigan Creek. It was Bourne over there, in his green-and-white mackinaw. Now, as always, that glimpse of him out of doors made her forget that she was doing and sent a train of questions racing through her mind.

What did he find out in the cold to engage his attention during the greater part of every day? Where did he go on those trips that sometimes took him into the wilderness to be gone a couple of days? He never told her anything about his absences. He treated her with no more than the least consideration and he had not exchanged a word in private with her since before Thanksgiving. His reticence made her distrustful of him. Now, while she watched for his reappearance on the hillside, a detached corner of her mind listened to Van Cleve and dictated her answer to his last statement.

"What nonsense is this about your being a hopeless cripple! Didn't your splints come off two weeks ago? Aren't you going to discard your sling tomorrow? What are you trying to do, Van—develop a 'line' to appeal to my maternal instincts?" She laughed and patted his arm.

Despite the animation in her voice, he perceived her detachment and the light went out of his eyes. With a flickering gesture of his fingers, he directed her attention to an old Indian trudging down the road past the front of the house. The native was returning from his trapline, a pair of snowshoes under one arm and the slim, dark body of a mink over his shoulder.

"Look, Denny. One might say that mink's case wasn't hopeless when he put his foot into the trap. The creature might have gnawed his foot off and freed himself to go on living—after a fashion. Not whole, but making some sort of compromise with life. But for me—life affords no compromise, no substitute for that which I lost through my crippled paw."

The word trap had made Denny fully alive to what he was saying. Little lines came at the corners of his eyes, as they narrowed to dwell on the sweep of country outside. "Van, you shouldn't have stayed here this winter. That feeling of the trap—no one can escape it here, now that the river is so still and frozen. See the white miles of it out there—all of it crisscrossed by cruel traplines, cunningly hidden—waiting—catching little creatures—holding them. The whole country is a trap," she went on tensely. "Cold, merciless, gripping you with soft white jaws that are stronger than steel. Surrounding you with impenetrable walls of ice. Holding you—holding you—"

She was gripping her hands until the knuckles showed pale, forgetful of Van Cleve, who was watching with the eyes of the skilled diagnostician, every change of her eloquent face. "So-o-o?" he murmured in a low voice. "You are the girl who was never happier in her life!"

At that moment Bourne again came into sight. He was lunging down the road toward River House, bent forward against the drag of a spruce tree that trailed on the snow behind him. Tongass, with the tip of one of the branches in his mouth was also tugging forward, rendering questionable aid.

The doctor changed the subject abruptly by remarking, "Here comes the skipper with the tree for the Commander's Christmas party. I never before knew a man who was such a queer mixture of hardness and sentiment. Instead of sending his Indians out to get that tree, he goes personally to select it, and then drags the thing in himself, when he might better bring it in on a dog sled. But I suppose he wanted the exercise."

Denny nodded without comment. After a moment she said, "I wonder if the Commander will get home in time to put on his festival for the youngsters tonight. The blessed darling! His heart was set on it; and even though he made no complaint, I know it was hard for him to abandon his preparations the other day and rush off fifty miles to the South Fork to deliver an Indian baby."

Denny really had little concern about the postponement of the affair; but she was touched by the gallantry of this one-time naval officer trying, against odds, to stage a real Christmas Eve in his barren log church for the pleasure of his solemn-eyed flock of savages.

"I believe the Commander's coming in now," said Van Cleve. "See! A dog team up on the summit of the hill road! No—there are two teams. Probably only a couple of trappers coming in for their Christmas drunk."

Denny took up a pair of binoculars from a shelf and focused them on the ridge. "There's a man and a squaw on the lead sled," she reported. "And oh, what a beautiful team of huskies! The man on the sled behind is—Yes! He's waving! It is the Commander. I recognize his white reindeer parka!" Bourne, outside the gate, had rolled the Christmas tree to one side of the road and was flourishing ing his cap as he waited for the travelers to approach.

On the lead sled an Indian woman sat muffled in blankets and wedged about by steel traps, bales of fur, and boxes of camp gear. The driver stood on the runners behind and though he was using the brake on the down grade, he kept snapping his wrist to keep a long whip snaking over the backs of his huskies. He was a very tall, gaunt man with a wolflike furtiveness about him.

As the outfit drew near, Denny was struck by the fact that Bourne, for the first time in her knowledge, failed to hail a newcomer with a hearty welcome. Instead, she and the exchanged a flashing glance of appraisal and a guarded nod. Those nods expressed more of hostility than could have been packed into a dozen snarling sentences. She noted further that Tongass lifted his ruff and silently bared his fangs, not at the stranger's dogs, but at the man himself.

"An enemy!" was her conclusion. And before the fellow passed, she impressed his face on her memory. Long, leathery, with small pale eyes under bushy brows; a thin mouth, loose and flabby. And when he turned his head for a backward look at Bourne's set, watchful face, his lip curled in a peculiar grin that exposed a startling mouthful of teeth—every one of which was capped with gold.

"Van! I've seen that man before!" Denny exclaimed. "He was on the dock the night we went down-river on the Maid. Ugh! Those teeth—they give me the shivers!"

Yet, despite her repugnance, her heart was quickening with hope; for she was also remembering the fellow's remarks about Revelry Bourne. She was certain now that the trapper bore the river captain no good will; therefore he might be the means of her escape from Tarnigan.

But she had no time to dwell on that now. The Commander, breezy and wholesome in his blizzard-battered furs, had stopped at the gate and sent his Indian servant on to the Manse with his dog team. He and Bourne were coming into the house.

The Commander was seated at a small table Honey-Jo had drawn up before the fireplace, telling about his journey as he applied himself to an excellent meal.

Though Denny had listened to the missionary's cheery account of his trip with interest and admiration, the portion of her brain that was always alert for some means of escape was busy wondering about the trapper who had come in with them.

"Who was your traveling companion, Commander?" she asked casually.

"Fellow I fell in with this morning, Wolfgang Stebbins. Native wife. Her people live here in the village. I invited them both to the Christmas tree tonight but the beggar told me frankly he was coming to town to drink. Later he's going down to Wrangell with his dog team. You know him, of course, Revelry."

"Yes, I know him," Denny turned her head, lest her eyes meet those of Bourne and betray her desperate resolve to get in touch with Stebbins; for she had made up her mind that when the trapper set out for Wrangell, she would be a passenger on his sled.

Vaguely she heard the two men speculating about Shakespeare George, who had not yet arrived in town for his accustomed Christmas visit. Her problem now was to get out of the house at once and seek Stebbins in the native quarter while Bourne was still occupied with the Commander.

Fortune favored her when the two fell into a spirited discussion of Canadian politics, and she slipped away upstairs to change her clothes.

Shortly after, Denny, dressed in her white blanket suit and ermine cap, slipped quietly out the front door.

Picnic Scenes at Labor Trial

Picnicking on the lawn

Missouri Justice Sets Up One-Man Gretna Green; Gives Advice Free

(By United Press)
ST. LOUIS—Take it from "Marrying" George R. Hart, justice of the peace of St. Ferdinand's township near here, that two can live as cheaply as one and the newlyweds won't have to go on a rigorous diet.

Hart should know. He conducts a one-man "Gretna Green" for Missouri and Southern Illinois couples with a desire for quick marriages, and boasts he will match his record of marriages performed over any given period with any other man.

A big sign in front of Hart's house says it's even cheaper to get married. "License any hour—Marriage also," the sign reads. "Get Married Now and Save Money. George R. Hart."

In the three years Hart has married a justice of the peace he has married more than 3,500 couples. But his business, always good, has soared to boom proportions since the Salliel law went into effect in Illinois on July 1.

The Salliel law requires all persons to possess a physician's affidavit certifying freedom from disease and to post a three-day notice of intent to wed before a license may be issued. Consequently, Hart modestly admitted, Illinois couples wanting to marry quickly cross the state line to him. In the first month of the Salliel law, Hart tied the knot for 322 couples, more than three times as many as in the preceding month and a daily average of more than 26. Hart's fees range from $5 to $20.

"Illinois people coming here to marry say the Salliel law is an insult to their intelligence," Hart said. "It's a good law, but it isn't practical. It places obstacles in the path of couples wishing to marry, and there shouldn't be such obstacles."

Hart said he doesn't perform "quick" marriages.

"Why," he explained, "I talk to a couple for several minutes before marrying 'em. When they're young and have known each other for only a few days, sometimes I even send 'em away to think it over. Then if they come back I marry 'em."

Hart is a former insurance salesman and was in the theatrical trade before he became a justice of the peace. Middle-aged and portly, he has two sons, one of whom at 21 is married and the father of a boy. "I like to have my family practice what I preach," Hart explained.

In addition to fees, Hart has managed to promote considerable

INVENTORS LIST WORLD'S NEEDS

Non-Skid Bathing Still At Top of Benefits To Mankind

(By United Press)
DES MOINES, Ia.—What this world needs—among other things—is a skid-proof bathtub, a sure-fire dandelion exterminator, and an automatic window-closer for the benefit of the sleeping public.

These and many other long-sought inventions will be available within the next 12 months, predictions advanced by George Burns, president of the International Inventors Congress, Inc., come true.

Burns, who will direct the annual congress of inventors here Sept. 14-17, listed 20 of the world's most needed inventions, and pointed out that some may be on display here.

Cold Light Bulb Needed
The bathtub, dandelion exterminator and window-closer headed his list. Others sadly needed include:

1. Cold light, (82 per cent of the energy produced by an electric light bulb is heat, and only 8 per cent is light).
2. A device or substance to prevent rust.
3. An electric cable that will not fuse.
4. Gasoline that will not carbonize in a motor.
5. A portable dictating machine.
6. A process for taking colored X-ray pictures.
7. Tarnishless silverware.
8. A noiseless airplane motor. (Many governments have been working for years to produce such a motor for use in warfare.)

Furnaces Lose Heat
9. A furnace that will conserve 90 per cent of its heat, instead of the average 30 per cent now retained.

10. A method for producing rain in a given locality at any time, and a method to stop the rainfall.

11. A process for recording speech directly on paper without use of a stenographer. (Burns reports that such a process is nearly perfected.)

12. A machine for making the application of wallpaper simple for amateurs.

13. A method of preventing electrolysis, or leakage of electric current.

14. An electro-magnetic gun to fire noiselessly small projectiles at high speeds.

15. A machine to weigh automatically and stamp postage.

16. A ray to paralyze the magnets and high voltage coils of gasoline and electric motors.

Burglar Alarm Included
17. A burglar alarm so sensitive it can be tripped by the heat emanating from a human body.

Burns came to the defense of inventors as a group. A recent proposal by Dr. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago to cur-

"One of the latest important patents granted," he declared, "was to H. B. Stratton of Warrensburg, Mo., who has perfected a method of extracting sulphur and phosphorus from old rubber, reducing the product again to crude rubber that can be re-worked."

"That one invention is very likely to create a whole new industry employing thousands of persons."

"Encourage and help the inventor to discover new industries," he declared, "and we will never again have an unemployment problem."

dragged the sled 26 feet. Harry Pollock, Winona, was awarded third place when his team pulled the sled 11 feet.

Several Winona residents donned costumes to enact a pioneer life dramatization on the grounds late Saturday afternoon. The drama depicted the hardships of the early settlers in this section, especially in fighting the Indians.

Orva Walton and family acted as the pioneer family and the Indians who attacked their log cabin were Clyde Bennett, Roy Oliver, Lowell Whinnery, Walter Holmes and Cecil Bennett.

Gets Away Safely Walton succeeded in getting his family safely out of the cabin prior to the Indians' second attack and then donned an Indian costume, slipped out in the midst of the warriors and was safe as the hut is set afire.

The field day program at the homecoming provided interest for marksmen of the district. Scott Chisholm and George Baillie of Salem were in charge of the trapshooting while Walter Burger and Earl Ruble, Winona, were in charge of the target shooting.

In the 25-bird finals of the trapshooting, J. M. Close of Moultrie won first place when he broke 24 targets. J. A. Gilmore of Lisbon was second, breaking 23 birds and Michael Zelenka of Salem, was third with 22.

The finals of the 50-bird event gave J. M. Close first place, with 48 out of 50 birds. E. A. Englehart, Salem High school teacher, "bagged" 46 birds to get second place while Nathan C. Hunt of Salem shattered 45 birds for third honors.

County Jail Sermon Proves Effective

LISBON, Aug. 30—A Sunday sermon at the county jail vacated two court actions, reunited a husband and wife and released a prisoner.

A Lisbon minister, preaching at the jail a week ago Sunday, so touched one of the inmates with his words that the latter immediately reformed. Committed from Homeworth for disturbing the peace, he convinced authorities of his sincerity and steps were taken to secure his release.

A few days later the prisoner was freed on his own recognizance and permitted to return to his home. His wife, who had brought an action for divorce in common pleas court, was at first suspicious. Later her husband convinced her of his mended habits.

Judge W. E. Jones, at the wife's request, dismissed the divorce action Saturday. The couple are again living together happily with every indication of continuing in that state.

SONIC ARC NEW IN RADIO WORLD NEED NO PAINT FOR J-M WALLS

Magic Voice Acoustic System Developed For RCA Victor

"Overflowing concert halls and opera houses, phenomenal sales of phonograph discs and rapidly expanding radio audiences are all evidence of an unprecedented public interest in tone quality which at least one leading radio manufacturer has been quick to sense," declared R. B. Finley, of the Finley Music company.

New High Standard
"Announcement by RCA Victor of the development by its Camden engineers of a remarkable Sonic-Arc Magic Voice acoustic system, which has been incorporated in many of the new radio sets just announced, fits in with the new high standards of sound quality which the listening public has grown to recognize and demand in every form of entertainment," said Mr. Finley.

"To understand the operation of the Sonic-Arc Magic Voice acoustic system in the new receivers we must take into consideration the fact that almost as much sound comes from the back of a radio set as from the front," explained Mr. Finley. "These back radio waves cause a great deal of trouble in ordinary radio receivers because they tend to make the lower tones, as from the bass instruments in the orchestra or male human voices, sound boomy and indistinguishable. Then, too, since most radio sets are placed against the wall of a room, the back waves bounce off the walls and interfere with the sound coming from the front of the cabinet to produce what engineers call out-of-phase distortion."

Seal Loudspeaker
RCA Victor engineers have solved the problem by sealing the loudspeaker in a scientifically constructed sound chamber shaped like an arc, in a sturdy cabinet. By this means the back waves are controlled and directed through measured openings in the bottom of the cabinet so that the back waves blend with the sound coming out of the front. The result is remarkably realistic tone quality. The objectionable "boom" is eliminated and the lower registers of sound are extended naturally. With the Magic Voice acoustic system speech and music sound thrillingly life-like, and have a brilliant quality comparable only to the original sound.

rock, the finest quality obtainable, is crushed into Kelly Island meal.

So soluble is it that when spread on the fields this limestone really dissolves. It draws moisture to itself.

Asbestos Siding Adds to Beauty of Home, Cuts Upkeep

How often do you have to pay expense bills in order to keep your outside walls in repair? In the past you have had to take this periodic expense for granted. But now, if you choose, you need never pay another bill for side-wall upkeep. Simply by applying permanent, fireproof Johns-Manville Cedargrain Asbestos siding right over your old walls, you can retain all the beauty of wood shingles or clapboards, and yet at the same time eliminate the need for upkeep expense.

J-M Cedargrain Asbestos siding is made in two forms—shingles and clapboards. The shingles were reproduced direct from fine wood shingles, especially selected for their interesting texture and graining. They are furnished in a variety of pleasing blended colors, featuring gray, green and brown. Although made in large pieces for economical application they look like individual shingles laid in random widths, with wavy or staggered butt lines.

They are also available in uniform 3-16 inch thickness. In the style with the wavy edges, these shingles also give you a choice between wide and narrow weather exposure.

If you wish the effect of clapboards for your home, you can obtain it by using J-M Cedargrain Asbestos clapboards. Both the clapboards and the shingles can be applied over the old siding at a cost but little higher than a good two-coat paint job. And the first cost is the last cost!

The Peoples Lumber company, the local representative, will be glad to give you estimate for re-siding your home.

Old Timers, Mullins Rated Even For Title Softball Series

Five Salem Netters Advance To Quarter-Finals In County Tennis Tourney

Batting Power Is Likely To Tell Story Of Class A League Championship Play

Old Timers Have Edge In Pitching, but Foremen Offset This With Good Fielding; Both Teams List 19 Victories for Season's Record

If season records mean anything, the Old Timers and Mullins Foremen should be fairly even in their battle for the 1937 championship of the Class A Softball league, opening tonight under the lights at Reilly stadium.

Perhaps the Old Timers should rate a slight edge in the two-out-of-three game championship series since they were beaten only twice during the season while the Foremen suffered four defeats, but in games won both teams are on a par with 19 victories apiece.

Mullins played more games than the Old Timers during the regular season because the veterans were rained out in a number of their engagements. The Foremen saw action in 23 contests, while the Old Timers played in 21 games.

There is only a small difference in the relative playing strength of the two clubs and any advantage one way or the other means little since the playing conditions under the lights are far different from those of Centennial park.

The veterans unquestionably have the better pitching, but the Foremen off-set this with high-class fielding. George (Sim) Earley, who will toss 'em in for the Old Timers in the series, won 19 games and lost two during the season to lead all Class A pitchers. The Foremen's pitcher, Paul Mullins, lists 18 victories and three defeats for the campaign.

Earley is harder to hit than McNamee, but the Mullins tosser receives better fielding support from his mates.

Batting power is likely to tell the story of the championship and in this department, the Old Timers have the edge with a team average of .369 per cent as compared to an average of .299 for Mullins.

The vets have two sluggers, Paul (Judy) Myers and Cliff (Skip) Greenizen, who are clouting the ball at a 400 clip, while the Foremen have no players hitting over the 400 mark.

Myers is currently pounding the apple at .420, while Greenizen is hitting an even .400. Arthur (Shorty) Borton leads Mullins hitters with a mark of .375. The batting averages of other players on the two teams

OLD TIMERS—Andy Filip, .351; Pete Sanders, .342; Joe Kelley, .321; Jim Primm, .314; George Earley, .308; Ted Scott, .303; Mike Schuller, .265; Patsy Lonerth, .227 and Frank Corso, .154.

MULLINS—Paul Stratton, .348; Earl McNamee, .344; Charlie McCloskey, .344; Jerome Kaiser, .337; Gordy Scullion, .304; Merle Caldwell, .286; Wayne Sidzinger, .278; Al Catlos, .278; Jim Fitzpatrick, .262; Marty Debnar, .242 and Ed Kennedy, .205.

From the point of season's records, the Class B championship playoff should be a walk-away for the Emmanuel Lutherans, who won two of the junior circuit's three rounds.

The Emmanuel won 17 games and lost three during the season, while the Columbians gained 12 victories and suffered nine defeats. The Lutherans also hold a distinct advantage in pitching and batting.

The Emmanuel have two pitchers with good records, these being Bill Pauline, who won eight games and lost one, and Mike Pauline, who boasts six pitching victories against two losses.

The Columbians' leading pitcher, William (Gabby) Guappone won 10 games and lost six during the season. Bill Fisher, another Columbian hurler, won two and lost two.

In batting the Emmanuel have a team average of .299 per cent while the Columbians have an average of .289. Averages of the various players are:

SCHROEDER SET TO OPEN SALEM GRID SESSIONS

High School Coach Planning New Set-up For Football Squad

Coach Carl F. Schroeder arrived in Salem Saturday from Columbus where he has been studying for his master's degree at Ohio State university, and immediately started work on preparations for Salem High school's 1937 football season.

The Quaker coach, with the assistance of Faculty Manager Fred Cope and Student Manager Dominick Zappone, had his working clothes on all Saturday afternoon, sorting new and used equipment and getting things in general ready for the opening of practice Wednesday morning.

With extensive plans for the organization of football from the Junior High school up, Coach Schroeder has arranged a new set-up for grid practice this season.

He will divide the players into two squads, varsity and junior varsity, taking control of the former himself and handing the latter over to Ted Jones, new assistant coach, formerly of Millersburg and ex-Hiram college grid star.

The 28 outstanding players will be chosen for the varsity squad, while the other players will be placed on the junior varsity. Junior High school gridgers as well as those from High school are expected to be on the jayvee squad.

Schroeder is urging all youths in Junior and Senior High schools who have the least desire to play football to report to him, regardless of their size.

Junior High school students and freshmen and sophomores from High school are especially urged to see the Quaker coach about coming out for practice.

Uniforms will not be available to all new candidates at the start, but this situation is expected to be cleared up in the near future.

The jayvee squad, which will include all the rookies and less-experienced players, will have its own schedule, according to present plans, and any player on this squad, except a Junior High student, showing talent, will be moved up to the varsity.

A Junior High school athletic coach who is yet to be named, will assist Jones with the jayvees. The Junior High coach will be a new member of the High school athletic department.

Practice uniforms were to be issued to players at the High school building today following a meeting of the gridgers for discussion of season plans. Assistant Coach Jones was to be introduced at the meeting.

One of the new game uniforms, which are the most colorful the Quakers have ever had, is now on display in the window of the N. L. Reich store on East State st. The game uniforms include red jersey with white stripes on the sleeves, red and white headgear and white stockings.

The birds were liberated at 8 a. m. in a southeast wind. The winner was clocked at 10:31 a. m. for a speed of 1,022 yards a minute, or about 40 miles an hour.

The next race will be from the 125-mile station at Marion. Birds will be shipped on the 6:03 p. m. train Saturday for Sunday morning liberation.

Autograph fans besieged John Montague, ace golfer indicted under his real name of La Verne Moore for robbery, as he was taken across country from California to Elizabethtown, N. Joe Louis Heavy Favorite In First Defense Of Title

Champion 5 to 1 Choice In Betting To Whip Tommy Farr In Yankee Stadium Battle Tonight

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The good fairies, if any, that flit about and protect the boxing game from violence have a job ahead of them tonight at the Yankee stadium, providing Promoter Mike Jacobs doesn't think he smells rain again.

The game's little pinkertons will need to be in sound shape, able to travel 15 rounds at a fast clip and to protect themselves at all times. Tommy Farr, the visiting problem child, is supposed to fight Champion Joe Louis that distance, and the little fellows had better be in there slugging on Joe's side every minute if they are to earn their keep.

Nobody wants the Welshman to get hurt—not seriously. Even Mike Jacobs would be willing to settle for a nice, comfortable Louis victory on points. But everybody seems agreed it would be a triple-plated catastrophe if Tommy actually should saw the limb off behind all the experts and win the title, like he's been threatening.

Although he has the Welshman sewed up tighter than a telephone booth, win or lose, Jacobs has been noticed to blanch slightly at the mere suggestion that Farr might win. Joe Louis, as champion, is a meal ticket that Mike, by all rights, has only just begun to punch.

Mike has been gleefully predicting a crowd of 40,000 and a $400,000 gate tonight since new customers kept coming right along after last Thursday's postponement. That's higher than anyone else will go in the figures.

The 5 to 1 odds that Louis will retain his newly won crown tonight reflect the young Negro's personal popularity almost equally with the public's faith in the terrific punch that carried him to the top. The championship apparently hasn't turned his head at all. He's still serene, courteous and tractable, and the boys like that.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Many people think Mickey Cochrane will give up the reins at Detroit after this year and that Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees will succeed him instead of going to Cleveland.

Mike Jacobs was only joking when he offered Max Schmeling 12½ per cent of the gate to fight the Louisville fighter here in October.

Mike knows that show would kill his "carnival of champions" billed for September 23. Also he knows Max isn't interested in 12½ per cent. If the German fights in this country this year it will be in Philadelphia or Chicago.

A better bet is the fight will go over to next June with Max getting at least 25 per cent of the gate.

If Farr beats Louis tonight, just listen to that limb crash with all the fight writers aboard. Abe Feldman's knock down of Tommy Farr was on the level. Down South, the boys say Doc Newton of N. C. State has a play up his sleeve that all coaches will be using in a year or so. Don't know what it is, but it has to do with the huddle.

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, who has played 'em all, rates Don Budge better than Perry any day in the week, but says Elsworth Vines could make 'em all look bad. John M. Compton of Jacksonville, Fla., nominates the Duke-Pittsburgh game as the No. 1 thriller of the early football season.

5 to 1 odds on Louis and Farr will soon be ring time—you can bet on that. Bookmakers say less than $10,000 of Farr money has been laid on the line in New York.

For the real razzle-dazzle brand of football give us the southwest conference. What boner did Nick Altrock of the Senators pull recently? Answer soon.

Fighting tip: The same experts who picked Louis against Schmeling are choosing him against Farr. Make your bets accordingly. From what we gather here and there, Van Mungo asked for all he got.

Don't forget this Gene Sarazen can still shoot golf. So can old Walter Hagen (when he gets down to biz). The reason Charlie Root of the Cubs manages to carry on so long is control. (Young pitchers, please copy). We'll take Louis in four heats and don't see how you can do anything else.

SUBWAY SERIES AGAIN SEEN AS GIANTS ASCEND

Terry Squad Only Small Bit Behind Cubs In National Loop

By SID FEDER
Get your nickels ready, folks. It looks like another subway series. What with one thing and another, those galloping giants seemed headed today for another of their stretch miracles, such as wound up with the pennant a year ago and gave little old New York a World Series monopoly even a supreme court couldn't break.

A week-end of wallowing saw Bill Terry's Terriers all but overhaul the Cubs in the National league pennant race.

Paralleling their 1936 dash from second division to the championship, they pulled up to a bare two percentage points back of the collapsible Cubs yesterday, with a 7-2 win over Cincinnati's sinking Reds featuring a Sunday program that topped any this season for plain and fancy flailing and flinging on all fronts.

The climax of their surge was just one of the miracles worked in the course of the afternoon. Take a look at some of these:

Connie Mack's confounding Athletics turned in one of the years' clubbing masterpieces against the White Sox. They scored 12 runs in the first inning, six of them batted in by Bob Johnson, for a pair of American league records, as they took the opener of a doubleheader. The Sox slipped in with the night-cap, 5-3.

The A's equally unpredictable neighbors, the fligety Phillies, topped a five-game winning streak against first division outfits by bang the Cubs around, 10-3, in their opener, with a barrage of four homers, and still held sixth place despite a 2-1 setback in the nightcap.

The daffy Dodgers pounded Pittsburgh's pathetic Pirates in both ends of a twin bill, 5-3 and 6-3, and climbed out of the National league cellar, with the Reds dropping in.

Ray Harrell, and up-and-downer who hasn't been much help to the Cardinals this season, just missed a no-hitter by the margin of a sixth inning single as he pitched the Gas house gang to a 3-0 win over the Boston Bees in their double bill nightcap, after the Bees took the opener, 3-2.

How Feller allowed only four walks and still lost the ball game to the five-hit pitching of young Kendall Chase, whose unexpected elbowing ability gave the Senators a 6-2 decision over the Indians, after the Tribe clubbed out an 11-4 edge in their first game.

The New York Yanks moved 12½ games in front yesterday with a 7-4 win over the Tigers as Lou Gehrig clouted homer No. 30 and Red Ruffing pitched victory No. 17.

Buck Newsom won in a four-hitter to give the Red Sox a 2-0 win over the Browns in the opener of a doubleheader, but the Browns belted three other guys, 8-3, in the nightcap.

The teams of Dave Carey and Don Hammill and Loren Early and Willard Albertson advanced to the semi-finals of the upper bracket. Carey and Hammill won their first round match by default, then defeated Harry Herbert and Bud Carl of East Palestine, 6-3, 6-2, in a quarter-final test.

Albertson and Early moved to the semi-finals by winning over Jim Campbell and Art Brian of Salem, 6-2, 6-2, in a first round match and Howard Clunk and Franklin Kearney of Lisbon, 7-5, 6-3, in the quarter-finals.

Summary of weekend play follows:
SINGLES (First Round)

Kearney (Lisbon) defeated John Carpenter (Salem), 6-3 6-1; Mangus (Lisbon) defeated R. Campbell (Salem) by default; Early (Salem) defeated Kyser (Columbiana) by default; Albertson (Salem) defeated Gilbert (Lisbon) by default.

Hutchman (E. Liverpool) defeated Bob Thompson (Salem), 6-0, 6-3; Caldwell (Salem) defeated Risinger (E. Liverpool), 6-1, 6-3; Herbert (E. Palestine) defeated Purn Sidinger (Salem) by default; Deming (Salem) defeated O. Brian (Salem), 6-0, 6-2.

Mast (E. Liverpool) defeated Art Lind (Salem), 6-1, 6-1; D. Hammill (Salem) defeated Carey (Salem) by default; Holloway (Salem) by default.

DOUBLES (First Round)
Early-Albertson defeated J. Campbell-A. Brian, 6-2, 2-5, 6-2; Hammond-Deming defeated Miller-Mangus, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4; Carey-Hammill defeated Holloway-Chamberlain by default; Herbert-Carl defeated Gilbert and partner by default; Chuk-Kearney defeated McDonald-Lind by default.

(Quarter-Finals)
Carey-Hammill defeated Herbert-Carl, 6-3 6-2; Early-Albertson defeated Clunk-Kearney, 7-5, 6-3.

Holloway Stages Biggest Upset Of 1st, 2nd Rounds Of County Net Tournament

Willard Albertson, Walter Deming, Loren Early and Merle Caldwell Reach Quarter-Finals In Singles; Play Continues This Week

Five of eight quarter-finalists in the singles event of the annual Columbiana county tennis tournament were selected in first and second round play at the Salem Country club courts Saturday and Sunday.

Players advancing to the round of eight in week-end elimination matches were Loren Early, Willard Albertson, Merle Caldwell, Walter Deming and Bill Holloway, all of Salem.

Early traveled the easiest route to the quarter-finals, winning both his first and second round matches by default. Perry Kyser of Columbiana defaulted to him in the first round match while Dan Miller of Lisbon did the same in the second round.

Caldwell reached the quarter-finals by turning back two East Liverpool netters, Bob Risinger and Paul Hutchman. In his first round match, Caldwell defeated Risinger, 6-1, 6-3, while in the second round he won from Hutchman, 6-0, 7-5.

Deming had little trouble in moving ahead in the tourney, defeating Otis Brian of Salem, 6-0, 6-2, in his first round engagement and conquering Rigby Mast of East Liverpool, 6-4, 6-4, in the second round.

Albertson won his first round match by default from A. Gilbert of Lisbon and advanced to the quarter-finals by taking over Harry Herbert of East Palestine, 6-1, 6-2, in second round play.

The biggest upset of week-end play saw Holloway move into the round of eight after defeating Don Hammill of Salem, 6-2, 6-4, in the second round. Hammill, who was seeded as one of the 10 best in the tourney, and Holloway both won first round matches by default, the former from Dave Carey of Salem and the latter from Hempstead of Lisbon.

Several matches remain to be played in order to bring the singles all the way down to the quarter-finals.

Two of these matches are first round affairs between Tom Moore and George Emery and Elwood Hammill and Dr. Richard Harwood. The other is a second round match between Franklin Kearney and Earl Mangus of Lisbon.

The winner of the Harwood-Hammill match will meet Howard Clunk of Lisbon for the right to advance to the quarter-finals, while the winner in the Emery-Moore match will play Bob Hammill of Salm for a quarter-final berth.

All of these matches are expected to be wiped off the boards this week, leaving everything clear for the quarter-finals to be played this coming Saturday. The semi-finals will be played Sunday and the finals Labor day.

Play was sifted down to the semi-finals in the upper bracket of the doubles event, but in the lower bracket several matches remain to be played before the semi-finals are reached.

The teams of Dave Carey and Don Hammill and Loren Early and Willard Albertson advanced to the semi-finals of the upper bracket. Carey and Hammill won their first round match by default, then defeated Harry Herbert and Bud Carl of East Palestine, 6-3, 6-2, in a quarter-final test.

Albertson and Early moved to the semi-finals by winning over Jim Campbell and Art Brian of Salem, 6-2, 6-2, in a first round match and Howard Clunk and Franklin Kearney of Lisbon, 7-5, 6-3, in the quarter-finals.

SALEM POLOISTS SUFFER DEFEAT AT PITTSBURGH

Local Riders Victims As North Hills Gains 14th Victory

Gaining its 14th straight victory, the Pittsburgh North Hills Polo club defeated the Salem Polo club, 12 to 7, at the North Hills field yesterday.

North Hills used two teams throughout the match changing lineups in each chukker. Ed Wright led the Pittsburgh scoring with four goals.

Each team scored once in the first chukker before Pittsburgh pulled into the lead by scoring two goals to Salem's one in the third chukker to hold a 6 to 3 lead at halftime.

Salem went blank in the fourth period while Pittsburgh added three more goals to lead 9 to 3. In the fifth chukker the local riders rallied to tally three times while holding North Hills scoreless. With the score standing, 9 to 6, at the end of the fifth period, Pittsburgh sewed up the victory in the final chukker, scoring three goals to Salem's one.

Brooke (Pete) Votaw was the leading scorer for Salem, making three goals. Owen Lewis of Alliance, who was added to the Salem club for the game, tallied twice, while Captain Jim Pidgeon and Raymond Moff each scored once.

Moff was injured in the fifth chukker of the game when he was hit in the forearm with a mallet. He played the remainder of the chukker after being hurt, but was unable to do any stick work. He was replaced by Lewis in the sixth period.

Despondent Mother Slays Six Children, Takes Her Own Life

(By Associated Press)
DENISON, Ia., Aug. 30.—Seven bodies—a mother and her six children—lay in a funeral home here today, victims of a farm home tragedy that Coroner John Gottburg said was murder and suicide.

The dead were:
Mrs. Elsie Nollen, 30, Leona, 4,
Viola, 2, Orvin, 11, Wilbert, 10,
Pauline, 7, Earl, 6.

Leaving a suicide note which told of marital unhappiness, Mrs. Nollen took the lives of her children and herself by sending deadly automobile exhaust gas from the family car into a bedroom window of her home.

Her husband, Albert, 36, found the bodies early yesterday when he returned home.

"I have tried and tried to live a decent life," Mrs. Nollen said in the six-page, penciled note, "and raise my kids up right so they would be decent. x x x"

"But they have a father that does not care for them or me either. He don't know any better. x x x"

"Albert was awfully good to me when he wasn't drinking. I couldn't ask for a better husband. But oh, he sure was awful when he got drunk! x x x"

"He has beat me up lots of times and I always forgot about that just because I loved him and wanted to live with him. x x x"

"Now today he got drunk. I never said much to him because I knew it would just be a fight again. x x x"

"Oh, my, such a life x x x"

"I am doing this because I can see that this family is not going to be raised up right and I think it is a shame to let them grow up and live such a life. x x x"

Nollen found the family car backed up under a bedroom window with the motor running.
The bodies of Mrs. Nollen, Leona and Viola were found on a bed he said. The other four children were found in the adjoining room.

Cleveland Torso Suspect Released

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30.—A 40-year-old mill worker described by police as a former hospital morgue attendant, held as a suspect in Cleveland's torso murder, was at liberty today.

Detective Lieutenant Michael
Blackwell said the man was released from custody yesterday after questioning had failed to connect him with the crimes.

He said the suspect's duties while employed at the hospital included the dissection of bodies for autopsies.

The man was released, the officer said, after he had signed a waiver admitting he practiced medicine without a license. Blackwell explained that the man released, under these circumstances, may be picked up at any time by police for further questioning.

Lieut. Blackwell said the man had given an acquaintance a maldehyde solution "to prevent perspiration of the feet." The officer said a thousand or more persons have been arrested throughout the country as suspects in the torso killings but all were sooner or later released when sufficient evidence was lacking.
